THE 17TH ANNUAL BUSINESS EXPO was held Thursday, March 21, from 10 am to 4 pm at the Richland County Fairgrounds, presented by Hamilton Insurance. This is certainly one of the more popular events, with over 100 local businesses and non-profit organizations exhibiting. Admission and parking were free and open to the public. Individual booths offered prizes, samples and giveaways. The Richland Area Chamber also held prize drawings throughout the day. Canned good items were accepted and those donating were entered to win an oil change, courtesy of Graham Automall. The expo is always a great way for consumers to interact with businesses and learn more about what they have to offer. Businesses were encouraged to participate in the theme, "Don't Get Left in the Dark," referring to the upcoming total solar eclipse. Exclusively Yours Catering won the People's Choice Award, Leap-year Studios won for the Most Creative Booth Award and Dream Huge Realty was chosen for the Best Use of Theme Award. (Photo Above) A ribbon cutting was held to officially open this year's expo. Shown with the scissors in new City of Mansfield Mayor Jodie Perry. (Photo Left) Mechanics Bank had a booth at the expo and had a plinko game for prizes. See More Photos on Page 8.

THE ENTERTAINMENT EXAMINER

— By Ian Stumbo —

The reviews coming out about Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire are highly negative. I even read one post that said it was as bad as Madame Web.

While the new Ghostbusters movie certainly has its flaws, it's a pretty enjoyably fun romp that brings back all the old and new characters from Ghostbusters: Afterlife.

An ancient orb that contains primitive hieroglyphics falls into the hands of Dr. Raymond Stantz (Dan Aykroyd) from a guy trying to get rid of his grandmother's old collectibles. He is played by Kumail Nanjiani.

There is something about this orb that is not right. While the new Ghostbusters, headed by Paul Rudd, Carrie Coon, McKenna Grace and Finn Wolfhard, are carrying on the legacy by getting all the ghosts in New York City, the older retired crew are trying to ease into their new lives.

However, this mysterious force in this orb awakens and turns the Big Apple into an icy tundra. All of the Ghostbusters, old and new, including Stantz, Peter Venkman (Bill Murray) and Winston Zeddemore (Ernie Hudson), must defeat this new, powerful ghost.

Ghostbusters: Afterlife was the sequel the 1984 classic needed as it had a nostalgic plot with so much heart. While this new entry at times feels like a television episode, there is enough here for fans of the classic movies. There are some laughs, though maybe not as big, and the ending fight sequence is self-contained when it would have been quite a bit more fun if it took place throughout the city. The best performance continues to be McKenna Grace as Egon's granddaughter who really brings the best moments out of the film.

Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire is so winning though because this cast is so great. The writing could have used some work though there are enough moments that are fun and entertaining.

This movie is certainly not as bad as the atrocious Madame Web, which was a complete mess. There are some fun moments, and while the script could have been tighter and some plot points needed changed, there is enough of Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire to recommend for just pure entertainment.

Not Much Left in "Pressure City"

By Bob Carter

Steam Corners has an unusual nickname, especially around Lexington and Johnsville. The corners have a long history dating back to the early 1830s when it was first settled. The name was the result of a steam powered saw and planning mill run by R. J. Boyington in the late 1870s.

This may have prompted others to join or relocate there. The small crossroads once had a blacksmith, post office, school, a general store, a physician and an evangelical church a mile down the road, if you count that.

The town never had a saloon or bar which may or may not have been the account of its slow growth. The elbow benders had to go to the Bungtown roadhouse about two miles west or that other evil place called Lexington.

Steam Corners was known for its music at the turn of the century. John A. Rutherford formed a group of beautiful young ladies into the Steam Corners Octet. He was a farmer and raised large lots of potatoes. His farm had the first silos.

His musical direction led the girls to be quite popular and in demand for local fairs, celebrations and socials. All were young and pretty which added to the charm. Alas, after a few seasons, the young women married, started families or moved. That ended their beautiful music but they were long remembered.

With his ability and direction, Rutherford also organized the Steam Corners Band. How and where the band members got their training is unknown. Perhaps Rutherford did it all, but the band was successful. Lexington, perhaps a musical desert, hired the Steam Corners boys for their Decoration Day (now Memorial Day) parade and ceremonies. This may have embarrassed the Lex folks so a few years later a rag tag Lexington Band was formed. It is recorded that volume outdid skill.

In 1949, a big homecoming celebration was held. Some 1,500 people showed up from across the country. It was the grandest reunion ever held at that crossroads. There was a band, floats and surprising amount of marchers. It passed through the center and then turned around and came back and was a good sized parade.

There is little left of Steam Corners today. At one time there were thirteen houses and several businesses and the Methodist Church. Now only a few houses and the church remain.

Oddly enough, the crossroads might claim the Mid Ohio Race Track as an asset. That's where most folks say the track is located. Steam Corners Road and State Route 314 are ever busy on race days.

TIM HAWKINS performed at a sold out show last Thursday evening, March 21. Crossroads Church hosted the event at 1188 Park Ave W., Mansfield, at 7 pm. Hawkins is a comedian, songwriter and singer. Former Audio Adrenaline lead vocalist, Mark Stuart, was also part of the tour. After Mark was diagnosed with an incurable vocal disorder, he struggled to understand God's plan for his life. Everything he worked so hard for seemed to be stripped away from him. In 2010, Stuart began serving the orphan and abandoned children of Haiti. Today, he enjoys sharing his inspirational story about adopting two children from Haiti and encouraging believers to live out their God sized dreams. Blue ribbons bring awareness for Child Abuse Prevention Month

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month. This month and throughout the year, Richland County Children Services (RCCS) encourages all individuals and organizations to play a role in making Richland County a better place for children and families.

The theme this year is "Doing Things Differently: Moving from the Challenge to the Change." The theme urges us to intentionally explore, engage and invest innovative, new ideas to transform the way we partner with families to deliver services and supports.

Richland County Children Services (RCCS) employees are at the heart of all we do for the children and families we serve in Richland County. For 141 years, RCCS has changed lives.

"Our staff continues a tradition of constantly seeking the best solutions to the needs of abused, neglected and dependent children and their families," said Nikki Harless, Executive Director of Richland County Children Services. "Helping families struggling with abuse and addiction and creating homes through adoption and foster is part of the vital work of our staff."

To help spread awareness for child abuse prevention, Richland County Children Services (RCCS) is inviting individuals, churches, organizations, businesses, and schools to tie a blue ribbon on their door, mailbox, or car antenna during the month of April. The blue ribbon is the international symbol for child abuse prevention. It serves as a reminder that all of us have a responsibility in helping protect children.

In support of this effort, downtown Mansfield is going "blue" in April. The city is tying blue ribbons around lamp posts, and the downtown gazebo in Central Park will be lit with blue lights in honor of Child Abuse Prevention Month.

"The most important thing we can do to help children thrive is to support families before they reach a crisis. To make child abuse less likely to occur, we need to invest in our community and our families," said Brigitte Coles, RCCS Community Engagement Specialist. "Each year, we educate and raise awareness about the impact child abuse has on children and society. Providing information about comprehensive best-practices that are known to build parental capacity through protective factors is key in helping families become more resilient."

National Child Abuse Prevention Month is more than just raising awareness about the reality of child maltreatment. It's about taking action to reduce it. RCCS is helping to reduce abuse and neglect by providing our families with the support they need. There are certain issues such as a family's neighborhood, income level, or other societal factors that can make parenting more challenging. By reducing these vulnerabilities through strengths-based approaches that truly support families, we can begin to mitigate child maltreatment and improve the outcomes of children, youth, and families.

RCCS is marking National Child Abuse Prevention Month with several activities:

Child Abuse Prevention Month Kick Off, Richland County Courthouse, 50 Park Ave E, Commissioners Board Room, Thursday, March 28, 9:30 am. The Richland County Commissioners will present a Proclamation in observance of April being National Child Abuse Prevention Month. Proclamations will also be issued by the cities of Mansfield, Ontario, Shelby, and the Village of Bellville.

Blue Ribbons/Blue Ribbon Trees for Prevention, April 1. Blue ribbons will be on display in downtown Mansfield for Child Abuse Prevention Month courtesy of RCCS, the city of Mansfield, the Mansfield United Lions Club, Rominus James Productions and Tara's Floral. The community can participate by displaying blue ribbons on a tree, door, fence, on your vehicle or mailbox. The blue ribbon is the international symbol for child abuse prevention. Participants can take pictures of their blue ribbons/blue ribbon trees and send them via email to Brigitte.Coles@jfs.ohio.gov for publication on the agency's website and Facebook page.

April activities include:

Wear Blue Day Wednesday, April 10. Wear Blue Day is an annual statewide event to spread awareness on the important issues of child abuse, neglect, and dependency. On this day local businesses, offices, schools, agencies, factories, retail outlets and media partners are asked to Wear Blue to show unity against child abuse and neglect. Participants can take pictures of themselves, their group, classmates, or co-workers wearing blue and send them via email to Brigitte.Coles@jfs.ohio.gov for publication on the agency's website and Facebook page.

Free Blue-Ribbon Cookie -Wear Blue Day, April 10 at Buckeye Bakery, 21 E. 4th Street, Mansfield

RCCS has teamed up with Buckeye Bakery for Wear Blue Day on Wednesday, April 10, to give the first 100 customers wearing blue a free cookie in support of Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Central Park Gazebo Goes Blue, April 1-30: The Central Park Gazebo in downtown Mansfield will be lit in blue lights in honor of Child Abuse Prevention Month.

For more information about child abuse prevention programs and activities go to richlandcountychildrenservices.org. Please call the Richland County Children Services 24-hour child abuse hotline at 419-774-4100 to report child abuse and neglect.

PORK LOIN ROAST

You are going to love this pork roast. It is quick and easy to prepare and will pair well with so many dishes. Potatoes or rice as a side would be perfect.

Ingredients

3 1/2 to 4 lbs Pork Loin Roast
1 cup brown sugar salt & pepper olive oil
2 fresh sprigs of rosemary several sprigs of fresh thyme
1/2 cup apple cider

Instructions

Rub pork loin with brown sugar, salt and pepper. Let sit for 20 minutes. In a cast iron skillet add enough olive oil to cover bottom and heat on stove top. Add pork loin and sear on both sides. Add rosemary and thyme on top and place in the oven. Cook for 1 to 1 1/2 hours until internal temperature is 160. Add cider the last 10-15 minutes of cooking (just to mix with all the good flavor in the bottom of the pan). Let sit for 10 minutes before you slice the meat. This will help meat retain juices.

Lifestyle Inspiration

The word of the day is "Restore."

When creating your workout plan, it's essential to understand not only your goals, but also what your body will need to repair and restore afterwards.

If you create a routine that only consists of heavy lifting, but fail to incorporate activities that repair and restore what you are breaking down, then you are letting yourself and your body down. Something to always remember is that if you let your body down, it will eventually return the favor.

Don't get me wrong, our body needs strength and endurance from our muscles. I'm not recommending that you stop lifting, but simply that you remember to add active recovery days along the way.

Yoga is a great way to help restore your body. Personally, I love restorative yoga, which helps repair the damage we do to our joints and body on a daily basis. If yoga is not for you, you could choose to do some work with bands.

If you are looking to work on your balance and stability, perhaps single leg movements would be ideal or working with a BOSU ball.

Your Trainer Girl's tip for you today is to create balance between your muscles and workouts.

Remember that it's just as important to stretch and restore your muscles and joints as it is to build them. Don't let your body down and it will return the favor!

TRINITY GRACE FELLOWSHIP, 1592 Grace St., Mansfield, held its annual Madison Community Easter Egg hunt March 23. There was a 15-minute program, followed by a hunt for 4,000 eggs. Children returned inside to make crafts and decorate cookies to take home. Children also received an Easter basket gift.

Lexington makes plans for sidewalk to connect parks

The Village of Lexington Council met March 4, with Mayor Jarvis presiding.

Council members attending were Keith Bacin, Adam Gongwer, Aaron Hoptry, Wynn Kearns, Kim Little and Jeff O'Brien. Also present were Attorney John Studenmund, Chief Troy Weaver and Lexington Village Administrator Peter Them.

Finance Director Peter Them reported a water leak at 85 Kimberwick which was found the previous Friday. Everything is repaired and back to order.

Regional Planning and ODOT have funds for Lexington which will be submitted this to KEM.

Them reported that a property owner at 167 E. Main St. is requesting a lot split. The owner is selling his house but will keep the property behind it. The planning commission approved the same request in their meeting and council also approved.

Councilman Little asked if the proposed crosswalk for Plymouth Street has been started. Them said it had been discussed. The sidewalk will be located between the baseball/softball fields and soccer fields. The crosswalk will be designed to connect Patriot Park to Community Park.

Mayor Bob Jarvis reported that the planning commission has started reviewing and updating the village's zoning ordinance. It was originally thought this task would be a year in the making, but the last meeting was far better than expected and it will probably only be taking six months.

A request was made for a memorial bench honoring Attorney Bob Whitney. Whitney was born in Lexington, three houses down from the square. The benches are often paid for by other family members.

Councilman Little requested the bench installed, if able, facing south from the square toward the school. Whitney will also have a plaque at the high school recognizing his years of service on the school board.

Mayor Jarvis read the Proclamation for Richland Newhope. On March 6, he bowled at Lex Lanes recognizing March as Development Awareness Month.

Councilman O'Brien asked for the status on funding for the village's downtown revitalization. Mayor Jarvis replied that it is a two-step process. He has approached Representative Marilyn John, the mayor, Edge Group and Peter Them met with Senator Mark Roman-chuk.

Chief Weaver gave an update on the license plate reader. This equipment just helped capture a vehicle involved with a fraud case where the person was wanted for over two and half years. The village owns five plate readers and has proven their value several times. Councilman Kearns asked if the chief doubted their worthiness. Chief Weaver replied that the readers were first not put to use, but recently he has installed all five of the readers and two of the readers have proven their worthiness.

Parliamentarian Keith Bacin: gave a reminder about the Primary Election date of March 19.

Councilman Kearns reported on the Feb. 26 cemetery board meeting. The ½ mil replacement was on the upcoming levy.

The audit was completed with the new treasurer. Some of the board policies have not been adopted, but it is being worked on. Elizabeth Michalski is working out great at the department.

The finance committee met March 18, before council for recommendations of capital equipment only. A second reading will be held at April's first council meeting. It used to be that council was required to have the entire budget done by the first of April, but now they are able to hold off with the capital items due in July.

Administrator Them contacted AEP regarding the log that is weaved between wires near Mid-Ohio Auto Repair Shop. AEP said they will investigate.

Taking Root Farms announces start of capital campaign

The Board of Directors of Taking Root Farms announced the kick-off of the Field of Opportunities Capital Campaign. Taking Root Farms is on track to break ground in the fall of 2024 on a 5,000 square foot facility that will provide day-habilitation services to adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities over the age of 18 in Richland County.

Through Taking Root Farms proven rural farm model, adults with limited prospects for meaningful work and new social connections can come together to engage in sustainable farm work and programming designed to drastically improve the quality of their lives and that of their families or caretakers. The $2.5 million goal will go directly to funding the construction of central farm buildings that are essential to the program's success. Every gift improves the lives of both the individuals who are directly impacted and our community as a whole.

Community leaders and financial supporters gathered at the future site on Monday, March 25 as board president Angela Eisaman announced plans to build the first building in the program. This building will house programming that includes a lounge, gross motor and fine motor rooms, kitchen, mudroom as well as a clinic and reception.

Recognizing their shared goal of serving the same population, Taking Root Farms partnered with Raemelon Therapeutic Equestrian Center for the location of the program. The Raemelon site was chosen as the optimal location due to its program synergies and central location. Raemelon Therapeutic Equestrian Center has entered into a long-term lease agreement for six acres of property with Taking Root Farms. This property will be used for the farm's buildings. Taking Root Farms will also have exclusive use of additional shared acreage/structures for shared programming.

Taking Root Farms empowers and enhances the daily lives of adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities living in Richland County and the surrounding region. The farm model promotes and enhances the physical, social, and emotional well-being of those served through purposeful and meaningful work and through relationships formed in the community.

68th Annual Easter Sunrise Service planned at Kingwood

Kingwood Center Gardens will host a community Easter Sunrise Service this Sunday at 7 am, behind the welcome center.

This is the 68th year for the service, which was sponsored by St. Mark Lutheran Church until two years ago. Paul Lintern, who will preach at the one-hour service, is coordinating the event.

"We like to say that 'Mansfield is Godsfeld,'" and this is the effort of church leaders throughout the community," he said.

Pastor Monica Swank of Church Requel will open with the resurrection passage from John, and Glory Way will sing three gospel songs. Overseer Renea Collins of Kingdom Grace Fellowship will lead a responsive reading and Dale Baer of Child Evangelism Fellowship will offer a message to children. Susan Hitchman Evans will accompany singing of Easter carols and hymns and Pastor Dave Rentzel of Kingdom Life will pray. The Rev. El Akuchie will offer the benediction, with Glory Way closing out the service.

A freewill offering will offset costs for the service and support the upcoming National Day of Prayer service and parade, May 2.

Metronome Music is providing a keyboard for the event. "Over the years, Kingwood has hosted this in several sites, around the main house and in the carriage house courtyard. This site is convenient, beautiful and conducive for worship," said Lintern, adding that it is among the earliest dates that Easter arrives.

"Come prepared to be outside, regardless of conditions. Only twice have we moved inside, in the last 25 years," he said.

State Senator Mark Romanchuk (R-Ontario) has announced that more than $7.2 million is coming to Richland County to support career-technical education programs. Both Ontario Local Schools and Pioneer Career & Technology Center will use the funds to prepare Ohio's students for future careers.

"Ohio's economy is booming, and we are in need of a well-developed and well-trained workforce to keep it moving forward," Romanchuk said. "These investments in career-technical education will help our next generation have the skills to find fulfilling jobs in today's economy."

Domestic Violence Shelter accepts mural and art contributions

In a significant display of community support, Park National Bank has extended support to The Domestic Violence Shelter. This contribution has enabled renowned local artist Allison Pence to bring a burst of color and inspiration to the shelter through a series of vibrant murals.

Beyond funding Pence's creative endeavors, the compassionate staff at Park National Bank have taken a hands-on approach by inscribing affirmations on the walls throughout the shelter, extending from the shared living areas to each of the 14 individual bedroom doors.

Park National Bank's generosity has not only facilitated the creation of uplifting art throughout the shelter but also spurred a much-needed renovation of the children's playroom.

In an innovative move, a chalkboard was installed below the chair rail to foster the children's artistic inclinations. Additionally, Pence seamlessly integrated existing crayon and pen marks into her new artwork, enhancing the room's original whimsical aesthetic.

"I was deeply moved when Colleen approached me about this project, as it presents an opportunity to positively impact an entire community," Allison Pence commented. "My hope is that the vibrant colors and the uplifting theme dispersed throughout the hallways will make the shelter more inviting and welcoming."

Chris Hiner, the Regional President of Park National Bank, expressed his enthusiasm about the project's transformative potential. "Our support for these murals goes beyond mere beautification; we're instilling a sense of hope and resilience in those to remind them better days are ahead," Hiner remarked.

Echoing Hiner's sentiments, Shannon Hatfield, Director of Shelter Services, emphasized the healing and inspiring power of art. "This project enables us to create an environment that not only ensures safety but also radiates positivity for our residents," Hatfield stated.

Those in need of assistance are encouraged to contact the shelter hotline at 419-774-5840. For individuals interested in volunteer opportunities, they are invited to call the hotline and ask for Sarah.

Whippets end state playoffs in close 68-65 defeat

Photos and Article By Kris Leiter

I just want to give credit where credit is due and the Shelby Boys Basketball Team definitely deserves credit for a season well played!

We are so blessed to have a hotbed of great basketball in this area for both girls and boys teams. Crestview, Ontario, Mansfield Senior, Mansfield Christian, Lexington, Lucas and Shelby all had great seasons.

Shelby made the state playoffs for the first time in school history. The boys headed to Dayton last Saturday to meet up with the Maysville Panthers in the state tournament. Shelby was defeated in the final four with a very close 68-65.

Reflecting back during the regular season, there were so many close games, and sometimes so close, I was wondering what the outcome would be. It always seemed like Shelby would find a way.

Good basketball makes for good memories. A big take-away this season was Alex Bruskotter, who I hadn't really had the chance to watch much until this year. The more I watched, the more amazing it was. I have seen a lot of basketball over the year, but to see a 6' 7" post player do what he does is phenomenal. His ball handling skills are second-to-none. I am excited to see his upcoming endeavors at Wright State.

Issaiah Ramsey was always in the scoring mix this year. Ramsey is heading to the collegiate life as well, where he will be playing football for the Ashland University Eagles, right next door in neighboring Ashland County.

Feel free to keep up with my columns going into the fall season, and with Issaiah, as I usually try to keep our readers informed of local talent making strides at Ashland College. Since it is a short drive from Mansfield, it frequently has a nice mix of talent from our area.

Casey Lantz and Brayden Devito also contributed greatly this season. From my recollection, every time I was watching a game this season, both young men were making their marks, whether it be snagging a rebound, boxing out an opponent, or shooting the ball, I was living vicariously through them at times.

And credit also goes to the rest of the team, Tanner Hartz, Cohen Sturtz, Bryson Baker, Anderson Brubaker, Brennan Lewis, Eli Schwemely, Amareon Russell and Karsen Homan, as all were contributors in one way or another.

Let's not forget the amazing coaching staff of head coach Greg Gallaway and his great staff

All their hours of preparation behind the scenes that most people don't see have paid off.

Of course, we can't forget the awesome athletic director Pat Lewis, who has been a vital part of the Whippets sports program over the years. Every time I attend a game, even at another school, Pat always goes out of his way to say a big hello and is always so informative and accommodating.

Pat was also monumental in coaching the Whippets back in the 2005-'06 campaign to a 14-8 record.

Again, Shelby, Thank you for the memories and a great season!
