Stories of service and sacrifice take center stage at annual Mansfield Veterans Day ceremony

Photos and Articles By Traci Little

MANSFIELD — Every veteran carries a story of service, sacrifice and experiences that helped shape their lives. But when those stories go untold, important pieces of history can be lost forever.

That message was at the heart of the Veterans Day ceremony held Wednesday, Nov. 11, at Central Park in downtown Mansfield, where the Richland County community gathered to honor the men and women who have served in the United States Armed Forces.

Presented by the Richland County Joint Veterans Council, the annual observance brought together veterans, families and community members for a morning of remembrance, gratitude and patriotic traditions.

Joint Veterans Council Commander Bruce Phipps led the ceremony, which included the presentation of colors, prayers, musical selections and a solemn tribute to fallen service members.

The program opened with a warm welcome, followed by the presentation of colors by the color guards. John Darby performed the national anthem, while Josh Hurrell led the Pledge of Allegiance. Pastor Jim Berry of Berean Baptist Church offered the invocation.

The Jared Mansfield Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution presented a wreath in honor of those who have answered the call to serve their country.

Ken Estep introduced keynote speaker Robert Mason, a United States Air Force veteran and historian for the American Legion Department of Ohio.

Mason's own journey into military service was far from ordinary.

Mason faced significant obstacles long before entering military service. Blind at birth, he underwent surgery to restore his vision as an infant. Despite doubts about whether he would qualify for military service, he remained determined to enlist.

He enlisted in the Air Force in 1979 and later served as an administrative specialist and squadron photographer with the 1908th Communications Squadron at England Air Force Base in Louisiana.

Drawing from his military experiences, Mason emphasized that every service member plays an important role, whether serving on the front lines or carrying out responsibilities behind the scenes.

But it was a deeply personal family story that illustrated the lasting importance of preserving veterans' experiences.

Mason shared the story of his late brother-in-law, Lee, whose military service included combat duty as a machine gunner during the Vietnam War.

When Lee later developed cancer associated with Agent Orange exposure, Mason encouraged him to seek assistance through the Department of Veterans Affairs. However, Lee was reluctant to pursue benefits and died before his claim could be processed.

After his brother-in-law's death, Mason began searching for military records to obtain a marker recognizing Lee's service at his gravesite.

What he discovered revealed a part of Lee's military history that even his closest family members had never known.

Lee had been awarded the Bronze Star for his service in Vietnam.

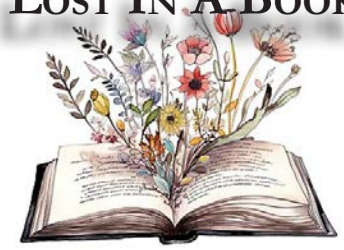

The discovery underscored Mason's message that veterans' stories deserve to be told, not only to preserve history but also to help families understand the sacrifices made by those they love.

Mason encouraged veterans to share their experiences with loved ones and ensure their families know where important military doc-

Lost In A Book

A Book Review
By Amanda Belczak

My Husband's Wife by Alice Feeney was wild with twists and a story that kept jumping perspectives.

Set in the Cornish Seaside, the wild sea, small town and cliffs were as much a character as the people who inhabited the houses.

A wife is locked out of her house and a woman who has her same name claims to live there.

When a woman is found dead on the beach, a new detective from the big city suddenly arrives to this town that has never seen any real crime.

This book is a page turner. As the perspective shifts, each character fills in new clues along the way. If you like mysteries and thrillers, this one is for you!

The Entertainment Examiner

Martin McDonagh scores again with Wild Horse Nine. The director of In Bruges, Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri and The Banshees of Inisherin, makes a hilarious movie about two CIA agents in 1973 who travel to see Easter Island after their assignment in Chile.

John Malkovich gives one of his best performances as Chris, an aging agent who has more going on than initially thought. His partner Lee (Sam Rockwell) is trying to keep him in line while being advised by their superior MJ (Steve Buscemi).

Chris is recording a memoir that is constantly being scrutinized and soon both agents find they are being watched after years of being involved in covert operations.

This movie is another hit for McDonagh. He writes dialogue that just pops off the screen.

I laughed out loud for at least the first 10 minutes and many times throughout the movie.

Malkovich and Rockwell have a great chemistry and their bickering is a highlight. As the movie progresses, it also has some touching moments about mortality and looking back on your life related to the wild horses that are part of Easter Island. The scenery is beautiful as well.

Wild Horse Nine is one of the best films of 2026. John Malkovich deserves serious awards consideration and Rockwell and Buscemi also give great performances. McDonagh's writing and directing are top level with an engaging story that hits on different themes and really captures the look and feel of the time.

Prospect Park's Jingle & Mingle tradition moves to The Grotto Hall

The highly anticipated "Jingle & Mingle in the Prospect Park Neighborhood" community celebration is officially back for its third year. The free event is moving to a new, larger venue at The Grotto Hall, 747 S. Main St., Mansfield.

Families, friends and neighbors are invited to gather on Saturday, Dec. 5, from 11 am to 3 pm for a celebration of the winter season.

This annual tradition is brought to the community by Kingdom Grace Fellowship Church, Richland County Children Services, First English Lutheran Church and Zoe's Learning Center.

"What started as a neighborhood gathering has blossomed into a hallmark holiday event. The move to The Grotto Hall ensures that organizers can deliver an even more magical experience for children and families, keeping the tradition 100% free and open to everyone," said Renea Collins, founder/senior pastor of Kingdom Grace Church & Zoe's Learning Center.

"Attendees can look forward to a welcoming atmosphere filled with community fellowship, smiling faces and plenty of holiday cheer."

The day will be filled with free food, music, games and gifts. Santa and Mrs. Claus and The Grinch will attend.

At the holiday celebration, organizations and businesses will be giving away special gifts and information to spread cheer.

"The holiday community celebration is just one more example of community partners coming together building relationships and bringing hope to the children and families we serve in our community, " said Brigitte Coles, community engagement supervisor for Richland County Children Services.

Richland County businesses prepare for annual Shop Small event

Local businesses throughout Richland County will take part in Shop Small — Richland County on Saturday, Nov. 21, an annual initiative designed to encourage residents to support locally owned businesses during the holiday shopping season.

Organized by Richland Area Chamber & Economic Development, the event provides an opportunity for residents to discover local businesses, shop for holiday gifts and support the small businesses that contribute to the economic vitality of the community.

This year's event will include participating businesses in Bellville, Lexington, Mansfield, Ontario and Shelby. In addition to encouraging local shopping, the program offers shoppers opportunities to win prizes through two separate drawing opportunities.

Customers who visit participating businesses can enter individual prize drawings at each location. Shoppers can also scan a Shop Small QR code displayed at participating businesses to enter a drawing for a $100 prize, provided by the Chamber. Participants may submit an entry at each location, up to six locations. No purchase is necessary to enter the prize drawings.

Mansfield faces urgent need for shelter as winter approaches

By Traci Little

MANSFIELD — A warm place to sleep can mean the difference between surviving another night in the cold and taking the first step toward a new beginning.

For Matt, that first step came on Nov. 19, 2025, when he walked through the doors of Truth Ministries' warming center after a stroke left him unable to work and eventually without a home.

Throughout the winter, Matt returned to the center on nights it was open, finding temporary refuge from the cold. On Feb. 28, 2026, he moved into Elijah's House, a transitional home operated by Truth Ministries, where he began working toward permanent housing.

Today, Matt has a home of his own.

According to Truth Ministries, he continues attending Saturday church services and has shared that he has never been happier.

His experience reflects what Peggy Powers of Truth Ministries hopes to make possible for others experiencing homelessness in Mansfield. But as winter approaches, she says the need for shelter continues to exceed the resources available.

"I wish people understood how many homeless we actually have, over 200 that are visible, many more hidden," Powers said.

While Mansfield residents generously donate food, clothing and other necessities, Powers said finding a safe place to sleep remains one of the community's greatest challenges.

"The homeless shelter is almost always full, and that is the only shelter they have to go to," she said. "There is no organization in town that has emergency shelter, there are a few temporary housing programs, but they are always full also."

With temperatures beginning to drop, Powers is preparing to reopen Truth Ministries' warming center at 2 Marion Ave., which operates from 7 pm to 7 am when temperatures reach 20 degrees or below. There are two shift options available overnight (7 pm to 11 pm and 11 pm to 7 am).

The center provides a warm place for individuals to sleep overnight, but its ability to open depends on having enough volunteers.

"The people can freeze without shelter," Powers said. "We have a warming center with limited space and volunteers, but we can only open if we have volunteers."

Volunteers primarily supervise the center overnight and assist with basic needs while guests sleep. Those interested in helping can contact Powers at 419-564-9542.

During daytime hours, The Arc Empowerment Center, located at 378 Park Avenue West, plans to provide a place for individuals to stay from 7 am to 7 pm, along with breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Together, the two centers are intended to provide refuge during periods of dangerously cold weather.

Six Months to Find Solutions

The need for additional shelter comes as Mansfield City Council voted Nov. 4 to delay consideration of a proposed ordinance restricting camping in the downtown central business district until May 18, 2027.

The decision allows additional time for city officials, community organizations, faith leaders and advocates to explore solutions to homelessness while addressing concerns raised by downtown businesses.

Powers welcomed the opportunity, saying discussions are already underway. "We are already in meetings with many different organizations to try to come up with solutions," she said.

Among the priorities is establishing additional emergency shelter where individuals can go regardless of their circumstances, while creating opportunities to pursue employment and permanent housing.

Powers said affordable housing remains the greatest long-term need. She believes providing additional emergency shelter could also help address concerns downtown by giving individuals a safe alternative to sleeping outdoors or in public spaces.

The next six months present an opportunity for the community to work toward solutions that address both the immediate need for shelter and the underlying challenges that contribute to homelessness.

Helping People Find Stability

Through Truth Ministries, Powers and other volunteers are already working to bridge the gap between emergency assistance and long-term stability.

Addy's Attic Thrift Store, located at 280 Marion Ave., provides clothing, shoes, toiletries, blankets and other essential items at no cost to individuals experiencing homelessness during regular business hours.

Purchases made by community members help cover the store's rent and utilities, with additional proceeds supporting other outreach efforts when funds are available.

Truth Ministries also operates Elijah's House, a transitional discipleship home on Third Street, where six men currently reside while working toward greater independence and stability.

The program provides more than temporary housing, offering residents a supportive environment as they take steps toward rebuilding their lives.

For some individuals, assistance may mean something different.

When funding allows, Truth Ministries helps purchase bus or airline tickets for people who have become displaced and need transportation to return to family or other support systems. The organization also occasionally provides motel accommodation for individuals needing a safe place to stay for a night or two.

These efforts depend largely on donations and community involvement.

A Community Called to Help

Truth Ministries is seeking to raise $25,000 through its year-end campaign to support the warming center, Elijah's House and other outreach efforts.

Financial contributions help provide temporary shelter, transportation, clothing, food, hygiene products and emergency accommodation.

The organization also welcomes donations of toilet paper, paper towels, cleaning supplies, new men's and women's undergarments and personal care items.

Powers encourages residents to consider volunteering, contributing financially or sharing resources with organizations serving individuals experiencing homelessness.

While the challenges facing Mansfield cannot be resolved overnight, she believes collaboration among residents, organizations and city leaders can create meaningful opportunities for change.

For Matt, that change began with a warm place to sleep on a cold November night.

Months later, he had something that once seemed out of reach — a permanent home.

His story offers a reminder that behind the discussions about ordinances, shelter capacity and housing shortages are individuals whose circumstances can change when the right support becomes available.

And for those still searching for a safe place to sleep, Powers hopes Mansfield will continue working together to make that opportunity possible.

Consider giving to this cause through Richland Gives - https://richlandgives.mightycause.com/organization/Truth-Baptist-Church-6. To volunteer at Truth Ministries' warming center, contact Peggy Powers at 419-564-9542.

WORTHY ladies night brings women together for worship and encouragement

Photos and Article By Traci Little

Women of all generations gathered at Berean Baptist Church on Thursday, Nov. 12, for WORTHY, an annual evening of faith, fellowship and encouragement centered on the message that true worth is found in Jesus Christ alone.

Now in its sixth year, the event offered women an opportunity to step away from their daily routines, connect with others and enjoy an evening of shopping, food, worship and spiritual encouragement.

The evening began with local food trucks offering dinner and covered outdoor seating for guests. Attendees then enjoyed shopping from a variety of vendors, including returning favorites and new participants, along with desserts provided as part of the event.

The highlight of the evening was a time of worship followed by a message from featured speaker Joanna Kimbrel, a Bible teacher and author passionate about helping others discover the beauty and truth of God's Word.

Centered on the theme of finding one's worth in Christ, the gathering encouraged women to look beyond the expectations and pressures of the world and embrace their God-given identity and purpose.

Following the worship program, guests had another opportunity to shop and enjoy fellowship.

Through WORTHY, Berean Baptist Church continues to provide a welcoming environment where women of different generations can grow in faith, strengthen friendships and be reminded of their value in Christ.

Beating the Holiday Blues

By Kelley Kovacs, LMT
Comfrey Corner

The holiday season is usually associated with happiness and togetherness, yet it can be a difficult time for many people. Loneliness, grief, family disagreements and money worries may feel heavier when everyone is expected to be cheerful.

If the season has you feeling low, remember that you are not alone.

One way to ease holiday stress is to simplify your plans. You do not need a perfect meal, expensive gifts or a full calendar to enjoy the season.

Choose the traditions that matter most and let go of those that leave you tired or overwhelmed.

Reaching out to others can also make a difference. Call an old friend, visit a neighbor or take part in a local community activity. Volunteering at a food pantry, shelter or holiday event can lift your spirits while helping someone else. A small act of kindness often brings comfort to both the giver and the receiver.

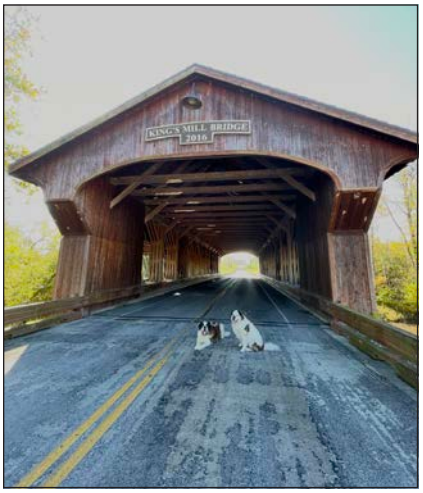

Pay attention to your physical health as well. Regular sleep, nourishing meals and gentle exercise can support your emotional well-being. A walk around the neighborhood or a few quiet minutes outdoors may offer a helpful change of perspective.

It is also important to make room for difficult emotions. The holidays can bring back memories of loved ones who are no longer here. Rather than ignoring those feelings, consider honoring that person by lighting a candle, preparing a favorite recipe or sharing a treasured story.

When feelings of sadness become difficult to carry alone, reach out to a trusted friend, counselor or health care provider. Seeking support can provide comfort and help you find healthy ways to cope.

The season offers many opportunities to celebrate the people and moments that bring us joy. By slowing down, welcoming kindness and appreciating life's simple pleasures, you can create a holiday filled with warmth, meaningful connections and happy memories.

Madison Middle School continues tradition of honoring veterans at military appreciation breakfast

Photos and Article By Traci Little

MADISON — Gratitude, patriotism and community pride were on display as Madison Middle School hosted its second annual Military Appreciation Breakfast, continuing the tradition of honoring veterans, active-duty service members and military families within the Madison community.

What began last year as an idea shared by Principal Jordan Nelson and school counselors Jessica Rush and Monique Eberst has grown into an annual opportunity for students and staff to express their appreciation for those who have served our country.

The breakfast brings military families together with students and school staff, creating an atmosphere of connection, remembrance and gratitude while recognizing the sacrifices made by service members and their loved ones.

Beyond the breakfast itself, students have played an important role in making the event meaningful. Through classroom activities and personal letters, they have been encouraged to reflect on the importance of military service, and the freedoms Americans enjoy.

Among those expressing appreciation was eighth-grade student Mackenzie Wiggins, who wrote a heartfelt letter to a veteran as part of a project-based learning assignment.

"Thank you for your service. I am entirely grateful for everything you have done for our country to protect and preserve our freedom," Wiggins wrote. "Your bravery is entirely unmatched and very much appreciated by the entire nation."

Wiggins, 14, also shared her interest in learning about American history and the service of veterans. Her letter included thoughtful questions about military experiences, favorite memories and what inspired veterans to serve.

"I hope that you enjoy my letter and feel honored and appreciated every single day," she concluded.

Her words reflect the spirit behind the annual gathering — helping younger generations understand that military service represents more than a chapter in a history book. It represents real people, personal sacrifices and a lasting commitment to protecting the nation.

The Military Appreciation Breakfast also reflects the dedication of Madison Middle School staff, who established the tradition last year through a collaborative effort involving teachers, counselors, cafeteria employees, custodians and student groups.

Now in its second year, the event continues to strengthen the connection between the school and its military families while reminding veterans and service members that their sacrifices are recognized and appreciated.

Through simple gestures of kindness, heartfelt letters and a shared meal, Madison Middle School is teaching students an important lesson: gratitude for those who serve should extend far beyond Veterans Day.

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING Madison Middle School's second annual military appreciation breakfast were Mitchell Covert and his mother, Norma Tebbs, 92, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran who served in 1955.

His message carried particular significance for families whose loved ones returned from military service reluctant to speak about their experiences.

Mason also recognized the challenges faced by Vietnam veterans, many of whom returned from war without the appreciation or welcome afforded to other generations of service members.

Joined at the podium by his wife, Teresa, Mason concluded his remarks by extending a message of gratitude and recognition to Vietnam veterans in attendance.

"You are our heroes," Mason said. "Welcome home."

Mason's dedication to veterans extends beyond his own military service. Since joining the American Legion in 2011, he has held several leadership positions, including commander of Earl Green Post 344 and second vice commander of the organization's Fighting Fifth District.

As historian for the American Legion Department of Ohio, he works to preserve military history and ensure the contributions of veterans are remembered for future generations.

The Mansfield ceremony continued with a Salute to the Honored Dead by the Richland County Joint Veterans Burial Squad, followed by the playing of Taps — a solemn reminder of those who gave their lives in service to the nation.

Doug Keppler performed "Amazing Grace," and Pastor Berry offered the benediction before Phipps concluded the observance.

While Veterans Day provides an opportunity to recognize those who have worn the uniform, the meaning of the occasion extends far beyond a single day.

It is a time to remember the sacrifices made in defense of the nation, express gratitude to those who served and recognize the personal histories that might otherwise be forgotten.

As Mason's message reminded those gathered in Central Park, honoring veterans means listening to their stories and ensuring future generations understand the sacrifices behind the freedoms they enjoy.

Town hall meeting is Nov. 23

Members of the public are invited to the second of a series of town hall meetings designed to build a better relationship between the Mansfield Police Department and the community.

This idea arose from conversations between Mansfield Mayor, Jodie Perry, Police Chief, Jason Bammann and members of the NAACP #3190. This meeting will take place on Monday, Nov. 23, at 5 pm at Mount Hermon Missionary Baptist Church, 292 Charles St., Mansfield.

Perry suggested that holding the meetings at local churches would allow attendees to speak freely and feel that they are in a "safe haven."

This is a continuation of the conversation between Mansfield City Administrators and the public. At the meeting in August, the city administrators spoke about recent incidents that had taken place in Mansfield and the police chief outlined the ongoing training that all police officers receive. This meeting will be an opportunity for community members to get a further understanding of what is being done to earn their trust and continue to improve local policing.

All are welcome to attend this information session and are asked to come with an open mind and an intention to learn and discuss.

Mansfield Christian School celebrates 65 years, announces progress toward new high school

Photos and Article By Traci Little

MANSFIELD — Mansfield Christian School celebrated 65 years of faith, growth and educational excellence during its annual fundraising banquet, highlighting record enrollment, expanding academic opportunities and significant progress toward construction of a new high school.

One of the evening's biggest announcements was that the school has secured $10 million in gifts, pledges and commitments toward its $12 million high school building project, bringing the campaign within $2 million of its goal.

The banquet also introduced the Carl Key Capital Campaign Fund, established to honor Key's legacy through a designated room in the new building. A $50,000 matching gift will double contributions made to the fund, with a goal of raising $100,000 in his honor.

The evening centered on the theme "1000 Hours: Stand Firm — Know It, Live It, Defend It," reflecting the approximately 1,000 hours educators have each school year to influence students academically, spiritually and personally.

Drawing from 1 Corinthians 16:13-14, Superintendent Dr. Cy Smith emphasized the importance of preparing students to understand their faith, live out their convictions and confidently share their beliefs with others.

"We are not merely instructors of content; we are shapers of culture and builders of the future," Smith shared.

A special highlight of the evening was the induction of five individuals into Mansfield Christian School's Hall of Flames, honoring their years of faithful service, leadership and lasting contributions to Christian education.

The 2026 inductees included Thomas M. Banks, a 1990 graduate who served 12 years on the school board and 24 consecutive years on the Finance Committee; Cindy Bish, a 1991 graduate who founded the Sam Bish Foundation in memory of her nine-year-old son to support families facing pediatric cancer; and Barbara McLeary, who dedicated 42 years to the school as a teacher, intervention specialist and volleyball coach, becoming the winningest coach in school history.

Also honored were Rosalie Wade, whose 45 years as food service coordinator made her the longest-serving employee in school history, and Dr. Cy J. Smith, a 1987 graduate who has served the school for 35 years as an educator and administrator. Superintendent since 2008, Smith has helped guide significant growth in academic programs and facilities. Together, the inductees represent generations of faithful leadership, compassion and service that have shaped Mansfield Christian and the lives of countless students and families.

The celebration also served as a reminder of the school's longstanding mission, which began 65 years ago when a group of believers envisioned a Christian school that would serve generations of families.

Today, Mansfield Christian is experiencing its highest on-campus enrollment in school history. To accommodate continued growth, the school replaced its original 1963 maintenance garage with a fourth modular classroom building, allowing for three sections of every elementary grade.

Academic opportunities continue expanding as well. This fall, Mansfield Christian launched its Academy of Business, joining existing career academies in STEM and Medicine, along with its Media Production and Ministry and Missions programs.

The new academy provides students with opportunities to explore business ownership and management through coursework, guest speakers, internships and field experiences, all while incorporating Christian principles into leadership and decision-making.

School leadership also reported a 94% faculty retention rate and a 96% student retention rate, reflecting continued investments in educators, staff and the school community.

Facility improvements remain another priority. Last summer, the school completed a major roofing project, installing a new roof with a 30-year warranty over more than half of its building. Future improvements will focus on campus security, including additional exterior cameras, improved lighting behind the school and upgraded classroom doors and locking systems.

Financial assistance for families was another important focus of the evening. Mansfield Christian currently provides more than $500,000 annually through its financial aid programs to help make Christian education accessible.

Last year, the school received $125,000 through the Ohio Christian Education Network's Scholarship Granting Organization program, which allows eligible taxpayers to receive an Ohio state income tax credit for qualifying donations that support student scholarships.

Beyond academics and facilities, the banquet highlighted opportunities for students to put their faith into action. This spring, more than 40 students and a dozen parents traveled to the Dominican Republic to serve local students and families through the school's longstanding missions partnership.

The evening concluded with an emphasis on prayer and community involvement.

As part of its 65th anniversary celebration, attendees received commemorative coins encouraging them to continue praying for Mansfield Christian's students, teachers, families and future.

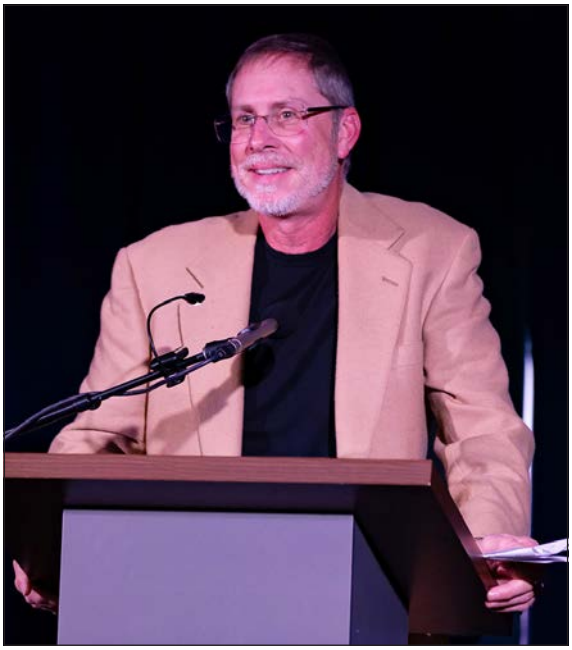

School leadership also reflected on "The 500 Moment," an initiative inviting 500 families to pause at 5 p.m. each weekday to pray for the school at 500 Logan Road.

As Mansfield Christian looks toward its next chapter, the school remains committed to the vision established by its founders more than six decades ago: providing a Christ-centered education that prepares students to stand firm in their faith and make a lasting difference in the world.

This November and December, The Salvation Army Ray & Joan Kroc Corps Community Center in Ashland is inviting the community to celebrate the season with special events designed to bring people together and spread a little holiday cheer.

Before heading to downtown Ashland for the Christmas Parade, the community can join The Salvation Army Ray & Joan Kroc Corps Community Center at the annual holiday arts & crafts show on Saturday, Dec. 5, from 9 am to 2 pm.

Held at The Ashland Kroc Center, 527 E. Liberty St., Ashland, the show offers shoppers an opportunity to browse a variety of 20+ vendors and discover unique, handcrafted gifts and holiday treasures.

New this year will be a gift-wrapping service. Suggested donation starts at $2 per gift. Cash and credit/debit card will be accepted as forms of payment, and all proceeds will support The Kroc Center's Christmas food box and assistance programs.

"It's a Wonderful Kroc Christmas" returns Saturday, Dec. 12, from 2–5 pm at The Ashland Kroc Center.

This year's featured attractions include Anna, Elsa & Friends presenting a holiday musical celebration and meet 'n greet, ice sculptures and a live ice-carving demonstration, photos with Santa and Mrs. Claus, a double 18-foot slide, a Frozen-themed bounce house, Santa's reindeer and a Christmas train.

Presented as a Holiday Hope Fundraiser, this year's event also introduces new activities for adults.

Admission is $15 per person or $65 for a family ticket which includes admission for up to five immediate family members. Additional children may be added to a family ticket for $5 each.

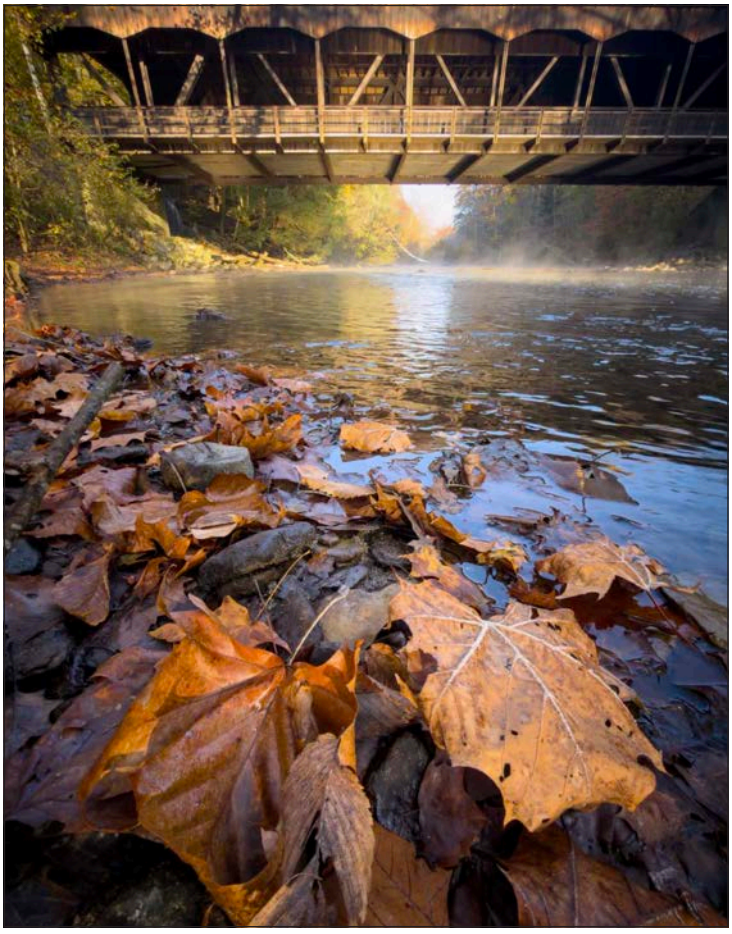

A ticket is required for every guest, including adults, to enjoy the expanded activities and enhanced experiences. "We are thrilled to bring "It's a Wonderful Kroc Christmas" back to The Ashland Kroc Center. Not only does this event provide an important fundraising opportunity for our organization, but it also gives families a chance to make memories, be active together, and celebrate the magic of the holiday season," said Dan Lawson, PhD, Director of Community Relations and Development for The Ashland Kroc Center.

Dr. Lawson added that the community's support is especially meaningful this year as the need for assistance continues to grow. "We are projecting that we will provide approximately 400 Christmas food boxes this year — about 75 more than last Christmas. We are also seeing an increase in the number of individuals and families seeking assistance through our Angel Tree program, along with more calls from neighbors who need help putting food on the table."

"The funds raised through the Holiday Arts & Crafts Show and It's a Wonderful Kroc Christmas will directly support our Christmas food box program. Each box contains the ingredients needed to prepare both a special Christmas breakfast and dinner, helping ensure that more of our neighbors can experience the joy, comfort, and togetherness of the holiday season. We are incredibly grateful to the Ashland community for helping us make that possible."

STUDENTS IN MR. SAGER'S Introduction to Mechatronics class at Ontario High School are prepping to earn credentials by passing SACA certifications in their Advanced Manufacturing Amatrol coursework.

ONTARIO HIGH SCHOOL held its own version of The Masked Singer during a school assemby. Middle school and high school students, staff and families raised $5,370 for Warrior Wishmakers. Every penny raised stays in the community to provide Christmas gifts, holiday meals and essential necessities for local Warrior families. Clear Fork, Ontario and Shelby continue to regional finals

By Kris Leiter

This Friday, three of our local football teams will be vying for regional titles! Clear Fork, Ontario and Shelby will be tangling on the gridiron as the stakes get a little higher. Now each team will be playing at a neutral site.

Division III — Region 10

Neutral site: Marion Harding High School
Time: 7 pm
Ontario 2 seed (11–1) vs Wapakoneta 4 seed (9–3)

Wapakoneta's head coach Travis Moyer knows about Ontario more than you may think

In the 1990s, the North Central Conference included Ontario, Wynford and other teams from Richland County. Before Moyer ventured south to Wapakoneta, he was a 1995 alumni phenom for the Crestline Bulldogs.

Crestline, being a D–VII school, sometimes goes unnoticed, so to get recognized is an impressive thing! Moyer earned All-Ohio Honors twice and set the all-time tackle record of 515 for the Bulldogs.

He was an inductee into the 2019 Crawford County Hall of Fame and Wyandot County's Class of 2025. He can hang his hat as a multisport letterman, with nine varsity letters to his name, four in football.

Crestline claimed the 1993 NCC football championship with Moyer being monumental in the mix. He was the Wynford head coach from 1999–2011 and compiled accolades of 118–28 and winning 58 consecutive regular season games!

He tangled with the Warriors 13 times, leading the series 9–4 and winning the last seven consecutive games of the rivalry.

He then went south to Wapakoneta to run the helm for the Redskins, He currently holds a mind-boggling record of 120–29!

All that being said, neither team that Moyer has coached has ever met the Warriors in a post-season matchup.

Warrior head coach Aaron Eckert comes to the table hungry for their first-time accolades of a regional crown and final four appearance. In Eckert's short five-year head coaching tenure with the Warriors, he has qualified for the playoffs the past three consecutive years 2023–2025!

The Warriors will bring their awesome offense and stout defense to Marion Friday night! Let us not forget the offensive players that got the Warriors to the game this Friday: Tanner, Ciroli, Porter and Brown. Adding to the mix are Powers, Flenoury and Moritz with double-digit trips to the end zone in recent weeks.

On the defensive side of the ball, there is Curry, and the Smith duo of Maddix and Liam.

To say this will be a good game would be an understatement! Pack the car and kids and the trip to Marion is under an hour, it should be worth the trip!

Division IV — Region 14

Neutral site: Mansfield Arlin Field
Time: 7 pm
Shelby 2 seed (12–0) vs Clear Fork 4 seed (record 10–2)

Last Friday night, the mighty Shelby Whippets defeated the Sandusky Perkins Pirates 20–14. The victory landed them into this week's regional finals this week. They will be facing a familiar opponent, the Clear Fork Colts.

This showdown will take place at Arlin Field in Mansfield.

In 2024, the Whippets were narrowly defeated in post-season play by the Ontario Warriors 49–48. In 2025, the Whippets manhandled the Galion Tigers 41–7 in the regional finals, the second time in school history claiming a regional title!

Last week, in a tightly contested match with Sandusky Perkins, Shelby was behind the eight ball 14–7 going into the final quarter. The Pirates were sure to claim the victory and send Shelby home for the season. However, never say die until the final horn sounds. The Whippets weren't loading the bus quite yet.

With 5:12 on the fourth quarter clock, Shelby quarterback Michael Shepherd scored on a one-yard scamper into the endzone to deadlock the score 14–14!

As the clock would tick down to a mere :54 seconds left in the game, none other than the Shepherd-Bowman duo would connect! Bowman added to his claim of over 4,000 in his high school career.

Bowman caught Shepherd's 44-yard pass to the Perkins 6-yard line. This would allow Shepherd to plow through multiple Perkins players and find paydirt for the game winning score!

Now let's take a look at Shelby's rival MOAC opponent, the Clear Fork Colts.

Two weeks ago, the Otsego Knights rolled into the valley, bringing their bread-and-butter wing offense. The Colts wasted no time with a running clock in the third quarter! The Colts came out the victor with the pummeling shutout of 38–0!

They showed the Knights how thier defense has literally kept opponents corralled all year. The defense has notched three shutouts on the year and never allowed the majority of their opponents to score more than fourteen points in a game!

Last Friday, the Colts destroyed the Ottawa-Glandorf Titans, 35–9 as Ottawa was the one seed with an incredible 11–1 record.

It may sound like a cliché, but the battle at Arlin field this Friday will be well worth the price of admission!

This isn't the first rodeo for these two teams! They have battled each other over 50 times on the gridiron! There will be no love lost between the two teams, as one team will leave with the regional title.

Shelby has the good habit of putting plenty of points on the scoreboard. Coach Rob Maheny also brings the track record of seven straight playoff appearances to the party!

Clear Fork has only been allowing their opponents a few digits, so this could get interesting.

ONTARIO HIGH SCHOOL'S Sofia Sturts earned second place in the VFW Voice of Democracy District 6 competition. Rep. John supports senate bill, aligns Ohio with federal gun laws

State Representative Marilyn John (R-Richland County) recently voted in support of Senate Bill 214 – legislation to remove firearm suppressors, short-barreled rifles, and short-barreled shotguns from Ohio's definition of dangerous ordnance in alignment with federal law.

"Ohio's firearm laws should be consistent with federal law while protecting the constitutional rights of law-abiding citizens. Senate Bill 214 provides greater clarity for firearm owners and removes unnecessary state-level restrictions on these firearms. I was proud to support this legislation and its effort to ensure Ohio law reflects these changes at the federal level," said Rep. John.

Senate Bill 214 works to allow a person to acquire, have, carry, or use a firearm muffler or suppressor; remove firearm mufflers or suppressors, short-barreled shotguns, and short-barreled rifles from the classification of dangerous ordnance; and provide that under Ohio law, an owner of a firearm muffler or suppressor is no longer required to register the firearm muffler or suppressor in the National Firearms Registration and Transfer Record.

Last month, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) announced it would no longer enforce the requirement for individuals to obtain prior approval before making or transferring short-barreled rifles, short-barreled shotguns or suppressors. If enacted, Senate Bill 214 would align Ohio with these federal firearm laws. Senate Bill 214 now awaits consideration from the Governor.
